

English Programs' Transition Documentation

Starting in Fall 2021, the Department of English will be offering several new courses, and it has also renumbered some of its existing classes. The chart below lists details of all of the new and renumbered courses, including their titles, previous course codes, new course codes, and necessary prerequisites. Bold font indicates that the course is a Guided Writing Research (GWR) course.

Please utilize this chart when planning and registering for your future courses, in order to ensure that you do not enroll in a course you have previously taken. (For example, if you have previously taken EN 180, you cannot take EN 165; and if you took the old EN 200 taught by Dr Webster, then you cannot take the new EN 201.) Further information on the relationships between old and new curricula can be found in “Advising Sheet for English: How New Courses relate to Old Courses,” here.

If you are repeating a course, please complete the Course Repeat Form that can be found here.

If you have questions about registration or the materials below, please contact either the School of Arts and Humanities or the Registration and Records Office. (For information about Literature courses in particular, please contact Dr Webster.)
