

The Director of Academic Advising or designee may contact faculty to determine a student's current academic standing, attendance, participation and observable behavior in courses for the purpose of follow-up, support or intervention.

The Director of Academic Advising or designee may notify faculty and staff when a student is unable to attend classes due to illness, hospitalization, death of a loved one, discipline issues or personal circumstances. The notification is to facilitate communication only and does not supersede individual course attendance policies. The student will still be responsible for contacting faculty to discuss missed work. The student or family member may contact Stephanie Rankin, Director of Academic Advising, at 717-361-1415.

For more information, please visit www.etown.edu/offices/advising.